UN's Science Advisory Body for Food Security unveils members to its renewed Steering Committee

The United Nations Committee on World Food Security (CFS) has unveiled the eminent members of the Steering Committee of its High-Level Panel of Experts on Food Security and Nutrition (HLPE-FSN).

Today, in their inaugural meeting, the Steering Committee elected Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann as the Chairperson and Iain Wright as the Vice-Chairperson of the Panel. This leadership team will guide the HLPE-FSN's efforts in providing scientific evidence and recommendations to inform CFS policy guidelines, assessing and analyzing the current state of food security and its underlying causes, and helping governments prioritize future actions to end world hunger and malnutrition.

“As we stand at the crossroads of global challenges, the urgency to place food security at the forefront of the political international agenda has never been more critical. Our responsibility as the UN-mandated science and policy interface on food security and nutrition has never been so pressing.

Today, more than ever, we need to place the right to food at the core of the international political agenda”, Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann explained during the election day.

“The world is looking to us. Ignoring the urgency of food security jeopardizes the foundation of stable societies and equitable progress. Now, more than ever, we must work to ensure that the battle against hunger becomes the top priority on the global political stage and that science makes the right contribution to it”, Iain Wright added.

Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann, national of Japan, a senior scientist in INRAE, France, and a professor at the Paris School of Economics. Iain Wright, national of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, is the Deputy Director General-Integrated Sciences at the International Livestock Research Institute (ILRI), one of the CGIAR research centres, based in Nairobi.

The newly appointed Steering Committee members are:

- Olanike Adeyemo
- Marie-Josèphe Amiot-Carlin
- Sayed Azam-Ali
- Mahmud Duwayri
- Ruben Echeverría
- Cecilia Elizondo
- Hilal Elver

- Evan Fraser
- Elisabetta Recine
- Hettie Schonfeldt
- Rachid Serraj
- Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann
- Stefan Tangermann
- Patrick Webb
- Iain Wright

Chosen for their outstanding contributions to food security and nutrition-related disciplines, these experts bring a wealth of knowledge and experience. Their appointment reflects a commitment to a balance of regional expertise and gender representation, ensuring a diverse range of perspectives and cross-disciplinary knowledge.

The selection process underlines the commitment to generating credible and legitimate scientific evidence for global food security and nutrition.

Membership to the Steering Committee is renewed every two years. They work with an extensive network of over 2,000 experts and participate in their individual capacities and not as representatives of their respective governments, institutions or organizations.

Experts were appointed by the Bureau of the CFS, following a proposal by an ad hoc technical selection committee comprised of members of the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), the International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD), the World Food Programme (WFP), CGIAR and the Civil Society and Indigenous Peoples' Mechanism for relations with the United Nations Committee on World Food Security (CSIPM).

L'organismo scientifico delle Nazioni Unite per l'alimentazione nomina i nuovi esperti mondiali

Il Comitato delle Nazioni Unite per la Sicurezza Alimentare Mondiale (CFS) ha presentato gli eminenti membri del Comitato direttivo del suo Gruppo di esperti di alto livello sulla sicurezza alimentare e la nutrizione (HLPE-FSN per la sigla in inglese).

Oggi, nella riunione inaugurale, il Comitato direttivo ha eletto Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann presidente e Iain Wright vicepresidente dell'HLPE-FSN. Questo team dirigenziale guiderà gli sforzi dell'HLPE-FSN nel fornire prove scientifiche e raccomandazioni per assessorare il CFS, valutando e analizzando lo stato attuale della sicurezza alimentare e le sue cause sottostanti, e aiutando i governi a dare priorità alle azioni future per porre fine alla fame e alla malnutrizione nel mondo.

“Per far fronte alle sfide globali, l'urgenza di porre la sicurezza alimentare in primo piano nell'agenda politica internazionale non è mai stata così forte. La nostra responsabilità come organismo scientifico per la sicurezza alimentare e la nutrizione delle Nazioni Unite, non è mai stata così pressante”, ha spiegato Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann prima di essere eletta.

“Il mondo ci guarda. Ignorare l'urgenza di garantire la sicurezza alimentare mette a rischio le fondamenta di società stabili e di un progresso equo. Ora più che mai dobbiamo impegnarci per garantire che la lotta alla fame diventi la priorità assoluta sulla scena politica globale e che la scienza vi dia il giusto contributo”, ha aggiunto Iain Wright.

Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann, cittadina giapponese, è scienziato senior presso l'INRAE, in Francia, e professoressa della Paris School of Economics. Iain Wright, cittadino del Regno Unito, è vicedirettore generale delle Scienze integrate presso l'International Livestock Research Institute (ILRI), uno dei centri di ricerca del CGIAR, con sede a Nairobi, in Kenya.

I nuovi membri del Comitato direttivo sono:

- Olanike Adeyemo
- Marie-Josèphe Amiot-Carlin
- Sayed Azam-Ali
- Mahmud Duwayri
- Ruben Echeverría
- Cecilia Elizondo

- Hilal Elver
- Evan Fraser
- Elisabetta Recine
- Hettie Schonfeldt
- Rachid Serraj
- Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann
- Stefan Tangermann
- Patrick Webb
- Iain Wright

Questi scienziati di fama mondiale provenienti dal mondo accademico, dai settori pubblico e privato e dalla società civile sono stati scelti tenendo in considerazione le loro competenze regionali e l'equilibrio di genere, garantendo una gamma diversificata di conoscenze interdisciplinari.

Questo Comitato è rinnovato ogni due anni e lavora con una vasta rete di oltre 2.000 esperti provenienti da diverse discipline accademiche, partecipando a titolo personale, non rappresentando il proprio paese, istituzione o organizzazione.

Gli esperti sono stati nominati dal CFS, su proposta di un comitato tecnico di selezione ad hoc composto da membri dell'Organizzazione per l'Alimentazione e l'Agricoltura (FAO), del Fondo Internazionale per lo Sviluppo Agricolo (IFAD), del Programma Alimentare Mondiale (PAM), del CGIAR e del Meccanismo della società civile e delle popolazioni indigene per le relazioni con il Comitato delle Nazioni Unite per la Sicurezza Alimentare Mondiale (CSIPM).

Cecilia Elizondo, de nacionalidad mexicana, fue designada como integrante del Comité de Seguridad Alimentaria Mundial (CSA) de la ONU como uno de los 15 expertos que componen el grupo directivo del GANESAN, el órgano de asesoramiento científico de las Naciones Unidas para temas relacionados con la alimentación.

Elizondo, con 35 años de experiencia en la gestión ambiental, 12 años en el Gobierno argentino y 22 años en el mundo académico y en el Gobierno mexicano, se suma a la brasileña Elisabetta Recine y al uruguayo Rubén Echevarría como miembros representantes de Latinoamérica, indicaron a EFE fuentes del GANESAN.

El Comité Directivo del Grupo de alto nivel de expertos en seguridad alimentaria y nutrición (GANESAN) tuvo hoy su reunión inaugural en la sede de la Organización de la ONU para la Agricultura y la Alimentación (FAO) en Roma en la que además se eligió a la japonesa Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann como presidenta, la primera mujer en ocupar este cargo, según las fuentes.

El grupo de 15 expertos se encargará de “orientar los esfuerzos del GANESAN a la hora de aportar datos científicos y recomendaciones que sirvan de base a las directrices políticas del CSA”.

También de “evaluar y analizar el estado actual de la seguridad alimentaria y sus causas subyacentes, y de ayudar a los gobiernos a priorizar las futuras medidas para acabar con el hambre y la malnutrición en el mundo”.

Los expertos seleccionados analizarán el estado actual de la seguridad alimentaria

“En un momento tan decisivo como el actual, con desafíos de carácter global, la urgencia de situar la seguridad alimentaria en el primer plano de la agenda política internacional nunca ha sido tan crítica. Nuestra responsabilidad, encomendada por la ONU, como interfaz entre la ciencia y la política en materia de seguridad alimentaria y nutrición, nunca ha sido tan apremiante”, explicó la presidenta.

El CSA de la ONU es la plataforma internacional e intergubernamental más importante e integradora que trabaja para eliminar el hambre y garantizar la seguridad alimentaria y la nutrición universal.

Los 15 expertos, elegidos por sus destacadas contribuciones en materia de seguridad alimentaria y otras disciplinas relacionadas con la nutrición, aportan conocimientos y experiencia de enorme valor y su nombramiento pone de manifiesto el compromiso de alcanzar un equilibrio entre la especialización a nivel regional y una paridad de género que garantice la diversidad de perspectivas y conocimientos interdisciplinarios.

Los miembros del Comité Directivo del GANESAN, que se renueva cada dos años, trabajan junto a una amplia red de más de 2,000 expertos y su participación en el comité tiene lugar a título individual y no como representantes de sus respectivos gobiernos, instituciones u organizaciones.

Su nombramiento lo lleva a cabo la Mesa del CSA, a propuesta de un comité técnico de selección compuesto por miembros de la FAO, el Fondo Internacional de Desarrollo Agrícola (FIDA), el Programa Mundial de Alimentos (PMA) y el Mecanismo de la Sociedad Civil y los Pueblos Indígenas para las relaciones con el Comité de Seguridad Alimentaria Mundial de las Naciones Unidas (CSIPM).

• Con más de tres décadas de experiencia en gestión ambiental y gubernamental, se convierte en uno de los 15 expertos, sólo tres de Latinoamérica, del GANESAN

Cecilia Elizondo (2i), una voz latinoamericana en el Comité de Seguridad Alimentaria de la ONU EFE

Con 35 años de experiencia en la gestión ambiental, Cecilia Elizondo se suma al Comité de Seguridad Alimentaria Mundial (CSA) de la ONU. Su historial incluye 12 años de servicio en el Gobierno argentino y 22 años en el ámbito académico y gubernamental de México.

Reconocida por su expertise, Elizondo se convierte en uno de los 15 expertos del GANESAN, uniéndose a Elisabetta Recine de Brasil y Rubén Echevarría de Uruguay como representantes latinoamericanos en este órgano asesor de la ONU.

La sede de la FAO en Roma fue el escenario de la reunión inaugural del Comité Directivo del Grupo de Alto Nivel de Expertos en Seguridad Alimentaria y Nutrición (GANESAN). En esta reunión, Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann de Japón fue elegida como presidenta, marcando un hito al convertirse en la primera mujer en ocupar este cargo.

Este grupo de 15 expertos tiene como principal objetivo orientar los esfuerzos del GANESAN para proporcionar datos científicos y recomendaciones fundamentales para las políticas del CSA.

Seguridad alimentaria, una prioridad

El Comité se encargará de evaluar el estado actual de la seguridad alimentaria, identificando sus causas subyacentes y apoyando a los gobiernos en la priorización de medidas para erradicar el hambre y la malnutrición en todo el mundo. La presidenta Suwa-Eisenmann enfatizó la urgencia de poner la seguridad alimentaria en el centro de la agenda política internacional, dado el contexto global crítico actual.

El CSA de la ONU es una plataforma vital e intergubernamental que trabaja para eliminar el hambre y garantizar la seguridad alimentaria y la nutrición a nivel mundial. Los 15 expertos designados representan una amplia gama de disciplinas y experiencias, contribuyendo con su conocimiento a la diversidad de perspectivas que se requieren para abordar estos desafíos complejos.

Estos expertos trabajan en conjunto con una red de más de 2,000 profesionales. Es importante resaltar que su participación en el Comité es a título individual, no en representación de gobiernos o instituciones específicas.

El proceso de selección de los miembros del Comité es riguroso y llevado a cabo por la Mesa del CSA. Un comité técnico de selección, conformado por representantes de la FAO, FIDA, PMA y el CSIPM, propone a los expertos, asegurando así una representación diversa y una amplia experiencia en materia de seguridad alimentaria y nutrición.

A Nigerian professor of veterinary public health and preventive medicine at the University of Ibadan, Olanike Kudirat Adeyemo, is part of the 10 eminent members of the Steering Committee of High-Level Panel of Experts on Food Security and Nutrition (HLPE-FSN) unveiled by the United Nations Committee on World Food Security (CFS).

Members of the HLPE-FSN renewed Steering Committee

On Thursday, November 30, 2023, in their inaugural meeting, the Steering Committee elected Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann as the Chairperson and Iain Wright as the Vice-Chairperson of the Panel. This leadership team will guide the HLPE-FSN's efforts in providing scientific evidence and recommendations to inform CFS policy guidelines, assessing and analysing the current state of food security and its underlying causes, and helping governments prioritize future actions to end world hunger and malnutrition.

“As we stand at the crossroads of global challenges, the urgency to place food security at the forefront of the political international agenda has never been more critical. Our responsibility as the UN-mandated science and policy interface on food security and nutrition has never been so pressing. Today, more than ever, we need to place the right to food at the core of the international political agenda,” Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann explained during the election day.

“The world is looking to us. Ignoring the urgency of food security jeopardizes the foundation of stable societies and equitable progress. Now, more than ever, we must work to ensure that the battle against hunger becomes the top priority on the global political stage and that science make the right contribution to it,” Iain Wright added.

Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann, national of Japan, is a senior scientist in INRAE, France, and a professor at the Paris School of Economics. Iain Wright, national of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, is the Deputy Director General-Integrated Sciences at the International Livestock Research Institute (ILRI), one of the CGIAR research centres, based in Nairobi.

The newly appointed Steering Committee members are: Olanike Adeyemo, Marie-Josèphe Amiot-Carlin, Sayed Azam-Ali, Mahmud Duwayri, Ruben Echeverría, Cecilia Elizondo, Hilal Elver, Evan Fraser, Elisabetta Recine, Hettie Schonfeldt, Rachid Serraj, Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann, Stefan Tangermann, Patrick Webb, and Iain Wright.

Chosen for their outstanding contributions to food security and nutrition-related disciplines, these experts, according to the UN, bring a wealth of knowledge and experience.

“Their appointment reflects a commitment to a balance of regional expertise and gender representation, ensuring a diverse range of perspectives and cross-disciplinary knowledge. The selection process underlines the commitment to generating credible and legitimate scientific evidence for global food security and nutrition.”

Membership to the Steering Committee is renewed every two years. They work with an extensive network of over 2,000 experts and participate in their individual capacities and not as representatives of their respective governments, institutions or organisations.

Experts were appointed by the Bureau of the CFS, following a proposal by an ad hoc technical selection committee comprised of members of the Food and Agriculture Organisation (FAO), the International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD), the World Food Programme (WFP), CGIAR and the Civil Society and Indigenous Peoples' Mechanism for relations with the United Nations Committee on World Food Security (CSIPM).

Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann, a high-level expert on food security and nutrition for the United Nations

A distinguished economist, Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann, is now serving as chair of the United Nations' High-Level Panel of Experts on Food Security and Nutrition (HLPE-FSN). An honour recognising this INRAE researcher's expertise and skills as well as her involvement in international decision-making bodies.

In Rome on Wednesday, 29 November, Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann, an INRAE research director, was elected chairperson for the 2023–2025 term of the Steering Committee of the United Nations' Committee on World Food Security's (CFS) High-Level Panel of Experts on Food Security and Nutrition (HLPE-FSN), which she has been a member of since October 2021.

"As we find ourselves at the crossroads of global challenges, the urgent need to place food security at the top of the international political agenda has never been more vital. Our responsibility as the UN-mandated science-policy interface on food security and nutrition has never been so pressing," explained Akiko Suwa-Eisenmann during this election.

How did you come to serve on the UN's High-Level Panel of Experts on Food Security and Nutrition?

- A. Suwa-Eisenmann: "My studies and then my career in economics have been driven by my interest in economic policy. For many years now, I have also been interested in world food security, particularly in terms of the impact that world trade has on households and businesses in the Global South.

Desde la #CDHCM saludamos el nombramiento de Cecilia Elizondo como integrante del Comité de Seguridad Alimentaria Mundial de la ONU @hlpe_cfs @UN_CFS.

La Comisión de Derechos Humanos de la Ciudad de México saluda la designación de la mexicana Cecilia Elizondo, como integrante del Comité de Seguridad Alimentaria Mundial (CSA) de la ONU.

Con 35 años de experiencia en la gestión ambiental y 22 años en el ámbito académico, Elizondo, junto con un grupo de personas expertas se encargarán de evaluar y analizar el estado actual de la seguridad alimentaria y sus causas.

Le deseamos mucho éxito en esta encomienda que confiamos fortalecerá las decisiones en la materia ante los retos globales.
